

England's Capital Wild with Excitement and Aflame with Warlike Enthusiasm

ON TRAFALGAR DAY IN LONDON, THE SPACE AROUND NELSON'S STATUE WAS THROGGED WITH PEOPLE WHO DREW INSPIRATION FOR THE NEW WAR FROM THE GLORIOUS ACHIEVEMENTS OF THEIR GREATEST NAVAL HERO.

THE FLAG OF ENGLAND FLOATED FROM THE BALCONY OF THE ROYAL PALACE IN LONDON AT THE OUTBREAK OF WAR, AND THE KING AND QUEEN AND PRINCE OF WALES, APPEARING ON THE BALCONY, RECEIVED A TUMULTUOUS GREETING. (© International News Service.)
